

February 22, 2012

Ivanhoe Mines CEO Robert Friedland a keynote speaker at international mining conference in Florida on February 27

VANCOUVER, CANADA – Robert Friedland, founder and Chief Executive Officer of Ivanhoe Mines, will be the keynote luncheon speaker at the BMO Capital Markets Global Metals & Mining Conference on Monday February 27, 2012, in Hollywood, Florida.

Mr. Friedland's keynote presentation, and a separate presentation on behalf of Ivanhoe Mines, will include a perspective on projected trends in global metals markets, an update on the rapid progress that is being made toward the start later this year of first copper-gold-silver production at the Oyu Tolgoi mining complex in southern Mongolia, production developments at Ivanhoe's subsidiaries and value-building initiatives.

About Ivanhoe Mines

Ivanhoe Mines (NYSE, NASDAQ & TSX: IVN) is an international mining company with operations focused in the Asia Pacific region. Assets include the company's 66% interest in the Oyu Tolgoi copper-gold mine development project in southern Mongolia; its 58% interest in Mongolian coal miner SouthGobi Resources (TSX: SGQ; HK: 1878); a 59% interest in Ivanhoe Australia (ASX, TSX: IVA), a copper-gold-uranium-molybdenum-rhenium exploration and development company; and a 50% interest in Altynalmas Gold, a private company developing the Kyzyl Gold Project in Kazakhstan.

Ivanhoe Mines' shares are listed on the New York, NASDAQ and Toronto stock exchanges under the symbol IVN.

Information contacts

Investors: Bill Trenaman +1.604.688.5755 / Media: Bob Williamson +1.604.688.5755